Media Monitoring

Media monitoring is the process of systematically tracking and analyzing various media channels such as newspapers, television, radio, online news sources, and social media platforms for specific keywords, topics, or mentions of a particular brand, product, or industry. The goal of media monitoring is to stay informed about what is being said about a company, brand, or industry in the media landscape, and to identify any emerging trends, opportunities, or potential issues.

Media monitoring involves the use of specialized software or tools to scan and analyze media content. The software may use natural language processing algorithms, machine learning, or artificial intelligence to categorize and analyze media content based on various criteria such as sentiment, topic, audience engagement, and geographical location.

What we did for UCC is:

- Monitored newspapers, television, radio, online news sources, and social media platforms for mentions of client's name and important/relevant information from March 16- April 15, 2023.
- Provided, when necessary, reports highlighting all relevant mentions and translation of some of the generated news.
